Generation 11

1024. Dennett, John. John was born about 1646 in Hurstpierpoint, England. He died on 5 May 1709 in Portsmouth, New Hampshire, United States of America at the age of about 63 years, 4 months^{12c}. He was buried in Point of Graves Burial Ground, Portsmouth, New Hampshire, United States of America^{12c, 14f}. He was the son of Dennett, John and Dennett, Mrs. John. He married Sherburne, Amy.

Notes for Dennett, John

Stackpole (p. 348) "Two brothers, John and Alexander Dennet (sic) came from England to Portsmouth between 1660 and 1670. John Dennet died 5 May 1709, aged 63, and was buried at the Point of Graves. He was a carpenter. Wife's name was Amy."

Ingmire - Seacoast Chronicles: "John married Amy Sherburne and had four children who appear in the records as John, Amy, Joseph and Ephraim. John and Amy invested in property and built a house with a beehive chimney on the highest part of Christian Shore. It became the family seat and remains at the end of Prospect Street. The Dennett home has not received a great deal of attention in these years of gentrification, probably because it abuts 'gasoline alley'. "John Dennett built private houses and performed 'civic' construction. He built a school house and made repairs to the parsonage chimney of Joshua Moodey. Elias Stileman, town clerk, carried the bill forward. In 1693-94. John Dennett was given land adjacent to Richard Martyn's Boiling Rock land in exchange for his services for Portsmouth. Dennett's new land on the road to Bloody Point was called Gravelly Ridge.

"Following the Glorious Revolution of 1689, with the beginning of King William's War, Portsmouth underwent growth. There was a building boom, as settlers came to Portsmouth to escape Indian attacks and build garrisons. The Dennett sons joined their father and lumbered the Gravelly Ridge forests to the northwest of Portsmouth. Part of the site became Frank Jones' estate in the last century. Today's malls are located in the region of the forest the Dennetts cut. The lumber was milled at the North Mill of the Cutt family.

"With land and lumber to sell, John Dennett became wealthy and used his income to provide each child land as he came of age and married. Nineteen-year-old John Dennett was given a farm in Kittery. The other sons, Ephraim and Joseph Dennett, farmed Gravelly Ridge after it was cleared. Today, Gravelly Ridge extends from the Schoolhouse Restaurant to the Omne Mall.

"Just before John Dennett died on May 5, 1709, he confirmed a grant to Portsmouth for a road past the Jackson House to the Piscataqua. This is Northwest Street. John Dennett's will was dated March 17, 1708/09 and gives insight into the thinking of the Englishmen who settled in New England.

"English landowners left their landholdings to the eldest son. Women, wives or daughters did not receive land generally. The Englishmen like John Dennett who came to New England and became landowners changed this thinking. Dennett employed an Egalitarian point of view, divided his wealth among his children and confirmed the gifts of land in his will. He left his wife a share of the land, which reverted to their youngest son upon her death. This was an important transformation from the English traditions and represents principles that became American. Private land was most commonly divided among heirs. This became an important element in the free American society."

Eighth great grandfather of Charles Russell Dennett

Name index and images of birth, marriage, and death returns acquired from the State Board of Health, Division of Vital Statistics and the state archives. Records are organized by surname and date. The collection is divided into three parts: Vital Records Prior to 1892, 80 towns; Vital Records, 1892-1921; and Delayed returns for births, deaths, and marriages, 1670-1891. Each of these is further broken down into name/date ranges.

These records were copied in years past from old records in the various Maine towns and cities. It is possible that not all data from the old records were included in these copies. It is also possible there were errors in transcription.

Hello Charles

I cant recall what I may have told you last time we swapped e-mails, but my present assessment is:

Winburn Russell Dennett b 1 nov 1824, m Marsha Durgin 7 apr 1849 (not 8 jul 1831) in S Berwick.

his fa Winburn Dennett m. Sally Frost of Berwick 31 oct 1822, had Ch Winburn Russell his grfa John Dennett, b---prob 1776, d. abt 1816, m. Joanna Morrill, had ch: William, Winburn, Pandora.

his grgrfa John Dennett b 15mar 1738, d 26 oct 1797, m. Abigail Carter of Dover his grgrgrfa John Dennett b 22 dec 1708, d 26 Oct 1797 m 1) abt 1730 Mary Tetherly, m 2) Wid Sarah Weymouth Baver his grgrgrgrfa John Dennett b 15 Dec 1675 d 18 nov 1742 m 5 feb 1701 Mary Adams Shapleigh his grgrgrgrgrfa was John Dennet, immigrant fm England to Portsmouth NH abt 1660-1670

This is mainely from data assembled by Winfield Scott Dennett and Alexander Dennett abt 1890-1913. My file has 57 John Dennetts. Note that two of them, above, have same date of death.

A litatle more real research in Maine birth and marriage records would be welcome.

Best wishes.....Armistead Dennett, Kittery Maine

Hello Charlie

The weak link in the line I gave you is this guy:

>> his grfa John Dennett, b---prob 1776, d. abt 1816, m. Joanna Morrill, had >> ch: William, Winburn, Pandora.

All that Winfield said about him is:

"John - son of John & Abigail (Carter) b. ___1776 probably. d, ___1816. Children - William- Winburne (or Winborn) & Pandora."

And I cannot find now where the reference to Joanna Morrill originated.

Pandora b. 11 jul 1806, m. Isaiah Chadbourne 23 Dec 1822 in Berwick and d. 6 mar 1836.

I have not tried to publish the Dennett files I have, because most of the info is not documented. Much of it I have full confidence in, but not all, as example above.

Good luck!.....Armistead Dennett
